It gives me pleasure to know that Prince Shri Venkateshwara Padmavathy Engineering College is organising 12 th International Conference on Contemporary Engineering and Technology 2024 (ICCET) I am sure that the interaction of participants throughout the globe, internationally renowned counterparts will go a long way in knowledge sharing to help Industry, Society to grow and to compete globally. We have given a good opportunity for those who have a thirst in knowing the present technological developments and also share their ideas. Education is always a sign of development and learning. It should be research-oriented helping society to create something new. Thinking in an innovative and new way is significant to cope with technological changes. This Conference provides a forum for scholarly discussion on advance computing. It is also relevant for exploring and searching various aspects of education through the appropriate application of information technology. The response of contributors and likeminded educational fraternity showing their keen interest in this conference is highly motivating. This conference will be a grand success and extend my best wishes for the success of this conference. I congratulate the Institute on preceding this wonderful step.
